

French Mandated Syria Is Reported Occupied By Nazis

British State Iraq Situation Be Cared For

LONDON, May 16.—(P)—German occupation of French-mandated Syria with a speedy movement of Nazi air and panzer forces toward Iraq to join the battle for Britain's vital middle east oil fields and the route to Suez were reported today in dispatches reaching London.

Tanks and other light mechanized units were declared to be moving across the sandy wastes of Syria in the direction of Iraq, by Reuters, British news agency, which quoted an independent French news agency, fleets of German long range bombers and troop carriers were also reported coming down on Syrian airfields.

German air-borne propagandists, technicians and similar air specialists were declared by the British yesterday already to be in Iraq — a token of greater infiltration to be expected.

The French agency described all this German activity as amounting to the occupation of Syria.

Grave Concern In Britain

There were indications that the British government was gravely concerned at the swiftly moving developments, but an authorized source asserted the situation in Iraq "can be taken care of and will be handled all right."

This informant declared significantly that Britain "doubtless will fulfill in due course" the policy outlined yesterday by British foreign secretary, Anthony Eden, who told the house of commons that British middle east forces have been given authority to bomb German planes on Syrian air fields.

Well posted sources said the British government already had warned France against even passive collaboration with Germany.

One authorized source referred to the "extremely pointed and potent comment" by President Roosevelt yesterday on the tendency that is being shown by the Vichy government and his expression of hope that the French people would not deliver themselves into the hands of the Germans.

Pétain Under Pressure

"Marshal Pétain is a tired and weary old man," this informant said, "who has been under constant and insidious pressure from Germany and from false French."

"What he says does not get us very far."

This source said the British government had every reason to believe French authorities in Syria were well aware of the Vichy government's attitude in regard to the granting of facilities to the Germans in Syria.

He added there was no tendency on the part of the Arab states to "play ball" with Rashid Ali al Galaini, the Iraq premier, and that Britain "appreciates the loyalty of our Arab friends."

General Charles De Gaulle's free French headquarters protested in a statement "in the name of our nation, now powerless," against the Vichy regime's "policy of treason" in permitting German use of Syrian airdromes.

"In allowing Syrian airdromes to be used by German planes, the abettors of the June capitulation have just been guilty of a fresh act of treason," the statement said.

"How could Marshal Pétain, revoking the promise he so recently made publicly, associate himself with a move against the allies of France?"

"Frenchmen who had joined General De Gaulle in order to continue the struggle note with deep sorrow the sad end of a French military leader who now is the mere toy of a small group of conspirators who went over to the enemy."

"Free French have never held that the Vichy government, which was formed without consulting the French people, is entitled to speak on behalf of the nation. They have always maintained that the action taken by the Vichy government

Youth Is Freed of Second Degree Murder

RICHMOND, Mo., May 16.—(P)—Ernest Davis, 17, was freed of a second degree murder charge yesterday.

Defense attorneys, entering a plea of temporary insanity, introduced testimony that Davis shot his uncle, Dallas Creason, 50, on a Richmond street after Creason threatened the youth's mother over a debt.

Ministers In Protest Over Trend To War

Resolution Is Adopted Against U. S. Intervention

A resolution deploring the present trend of the government of the United States toward complete militarism as a national and foreign policy was passed by ten of eleven members present at the Ministerial Alliance meeting here this morning. Five or six members were not present.

The resolution was presented by a committee composed of Rev. R. E. Hurd, pastor of the Epworth M. E. church, Rev. O. J. Rumpf, pastor of the Immanuel Evangelical church and Rev. John M. Vander Meulen, pastor of the Congregational-Presbyterian church.

One Vote Against

The one vote cast against the resolution was that of Rev. P. J. Allwell, pastor of three rural churches, Good Will Chapel, Dresden and McKee Chapel. Those voting for its passage were the three members of the committee and Rev. E. N. Garrett, pastor of the First M. E. church; Rev. Paul Miller, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church; Rev. L. M. Starkey, district superintendent in the Methodist church; Rev. H. U. Campbell, pastor of the Fifth Street M. E. church; Rev. A. W. Kokenodfer, pastor of the First Christian church, Rev. E. J. Weiss, Smith-ton and Captain R. C. Ellis, of the Salvation Army.

Millions Profit On Grain Loans

CHICAGO, May 16.—(P)—A tidy paper profit aggregating several million dollars can be credited today to Uncle Sam and the thousands of grain producers who have been holding huge stocks of wheat and corn off the market.

A recent sharp rise in prices for far above government loan rates has changed from red to black the accounting figures involving more than 700,000,000 bushels of grain kept out of commercial trade channels. This grain is held by the Commodity Credit Corporation, government lending agency, or stored by producers as collateral for government loans. Some of the corn was grown as long as three years ago, some of the wheat in 1939.

Upon the future course of prices will depend the actual size of this paper profit.

At above $1 a bushel in the spot market, wheat was only slightly below the peak reached last spring and, with that exception, the highest since 1937.

No Time To Sit Down In Arranged Sit Down Strike

HONOLULU, May 16.—(P)—A sit-down stoppage at Oahu Island defense projects ended before the workmen had time to sit down—except for 230 plumbers who were escorted from the Pearl Harbor naval reservation by U. S. marines.

The unions — both AFL and CIO — had planned a huge demonstration of 16,000 men to show the Five Companies Affiliated Contractors, their dissatisfaction with wages and hours. A union official issued a statement before hand saying the work stoppage would not be a strike and would be only temporary.

He was right about the time element. When the sit down hour came, the plumbers and a good many other workmen put down their tools. The plumbers, generally credited with engineering the move, began giving voice to their demands for more money and

Avert General Motors Strike By Agreement

Company Accepts Defense Mediation Board Proposal

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(P)—The General Motors Corporation averted a strike in 60 of its plants today by accepting a Defense Mediation Board proposal which involved an estimated $50,000,000 yearly increase in wages.

The agreement provided for a one-year contract between the company and the CIO's United Automobile Workers granting a 10-cent-an-hour wage increase, but providing for no closed shop, union shop or maintenance-of-membership shop.

The motor company, whose far flung plants hold approximately $750,000,000 in defense contracts, accepted the agreement a few hours before the 4:10 a. m. deadline fixed by the board.

The union had agreed to defer the strike until the deadline, but approximately 37,000 workers in five Michigan plants of the company walked out yesterday. Officials attributed the walkout to a misunderstanding of the 24-hour strike postponement agreed on early Thursday.

Have Reopening Speedily

R. J. Thomas, international president of the UAW-CIO, said at Flint that union officials would make every effort to reopen the closed plants as speedily a possible, but work was not resumed by the usual morning shift.

The settlement agreement has been accepted by union officials but it still needs ratification by the union membership.

Walter P. Reuther, youthful director of the UAW-CIO in General Motors plants, said it would be submitted to local unions within a few days and expressed confidence it would be adopted.

Reuther said the new agreement "represents the greatest victory won by General Motors works since the first contract was signed in 1937. It includes the largest wage increase ever won in the automobile industry."

"It vastly improves the grievance machinery," he added. "It affords assurance of adequate protection of seniority rights and of the right of older employees to prior consideration in promotions."

C. E. Wilson, president of the corporation, said the company appreciated "particularly" that the mediation board "recognized the reasonableness of our position regarding the present form of union recognition and consequently was not prepared to recommend the adoption by the corporation of the union shop in any form."

Driver Hurt As Truck Upsets

Louis N. Payne, 1404 South Stewart, received injuries this morning when his 1941 Chevrolet tank truck loaded with gasoline overturned near Beaman. Payne received a fractured rib and bruises, and his condition is not considered serious.

The truck overturned was damaged, but did not catch on fire.

It was brought to the Thompson Chevrolet Motor Co., this afternoon.

Mr. Payne was hauling gasoline for the Standard Oil Co.

Navy To Intensify Its Recruiting Service

KANSAS CITY, May 16.—(P)—The navy recruiting service for Kansas and western Missouri was called upon today to fill a quota of 800 men a month—the largest assigned to it since the last World War.

Orders to recruit with speed were sent by Lieut. Berner to substations at St. Joseph, Chillicothe and Joplin in Missouri.

Men between 17 and 50 years will be recruited from now on instead of from 17 to 36.

Expert Help To Check On Hess

New Developments In Bizarre Case Are Foreshadowed

LONDON, May 16.—The British intelligence service took a hand in the bizarre case of Rudolf Hess today as the government called for expert help in analyzing statements gleaned from Adolf Hitler's erstwhile deputy.

Possible new developments were foreshadowed by an early-morning conference between Minister of Information Alfred Duff Cooper and the Duke of Hamilton, Scottish nobleman through whom, the Germans assert, Hess believed he could single-handedly arrange peace with Britain.

The Duke, an RAF squadron leader, flew to London after talking with Hess for a second time in the secret retreat where the German is guarded as closely as any prisoner who ever entered the old Tower of London.

After talking with Hamilton for an hour, Cooper was reported to have paid a hurried visit to Prime Minister Churchill.

Informed sources declared Hess had proved a willing talker and on several occasions had prolonged his conversations despite a physician's recommendation that he rest.

His ankle, injured in his parachute landing, was said to be mending.

"Embarrassing Guest"

BERLIN, May 16.—Rudolf Hess is proving to be an embarrassing guest in England, telling the British they have no chance to win the war, a Nazi spokesman said today.

"We have the impression the British soon will be only too glad to send Hess back," this source commented.

It was described as significant that neither Prime Minister Churchill nor Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden seemed to care to talk to Hess.

"That's because they know Hess can merely report his honest convictions, gained from the deepest insight into German strength, that continuance of the war would be

Mother Of Mrs. Aitken Testifies

PLATTSBURG, Mo., May 16.—Mrs. Ida Aitken's mother testified today that she was with her daughter continuously from noon until 9:45 p. m., the day 14-month-old Bertha Lorene Aitken disappeared.

Mrs. Charles Barnett, the mother, was the first witness for the 32-year-old mother of two children who is accused of the mutilation slaying of her infant niece last September. She said she was with Mrs. Aitken until after the body was found beneath a railroad trestle.

Mrs. Barnett related she and Mrs. Aitken searched a shed at the rear of the Aitken home about three o'clock and concluded there were no gunny sacks or blood there at the time.

This testimony referred to the shed in which Mrs. Aitken in a signed confession, later repudiated by her but admitted as evidence in the murder trial, stated she "accidentally smothered" the child and then mutilated the body to make it appear to have been the work of a fiend.

Mrs. Barnett testified that Oct. 4, the morning after her daughter's purported confession, Guy Oliphant, then a deputy sheriff, read to her a note from Mrs. Aitken.

She quoted Oliphant as saying: "I'm well pleased with what she has done. I kissed her and promised to bring this note."

Oliphant denied from the stand yesterday a defense accusation that he had put his arms around Mrs. Aitken, kissed her and promised to help her.

Draft Call For June Largest

JEFFERSON CITY, May 16.—(P)—Missouri's largest single draft call will bring 3,000 draftees into the army between June 2 and 10, State Selective Service Director Col. Claude C. Earp announced today.

Fort Leavenworth will receive 1,400 men at the rate of 175 a day, and 1,600 will go to Jefferson Barracks with 200 reporting each day. All will be white men.

Col. Earp said 6,000 additional men are expected to be called later in the month of June.

King Of Italy On Tour Of Albania

ROME, May 16.—(P)—King Vittorio Emanuele III of Italy toured the now-quiet Albanian war front today after decorating Albanian cities and soldiers for their part in the conflict. The King pinned war crosses on the flags of 10 Albanian cities for their "stoicism and faith."

British Again Take Salum

Reports Of Heavy Casualties On Both Sides Made

CAIRO, Egypt, May 16.—Salum has been re-occupied by British troops, it was announced officially here today.

A middle East Headquarters communique said serious casualties had been inflicted by the British on Axis forces which had held the Egyptian border outpost, just across from the Libyan frontier, and some German prisoners had been taken.

Besides reoccupying Salum, the British said Halfaya Pass—whose hot, embattled sands British soldiers call "hellfire pass"—and Musaid, also were retaken.

Acknowledge Capture

The German high command acknowledged that British forces had "penetrated" Salum, but said this was only part of stronger forces which advanced both on that post and Fort Capuzzo in Libya. The British paid heavily in casualties and prisoners, the Germans said.

Halfaya Pass is a narrow passage just southeast of Salum, between the Mediterranean shore and an inland escarpment. Thru it passes the road back to Sidi Barrani, 60 miles within Egypt, which was the high water mark of the Italian advance and the Fascist's strongest forward base.

Beyond Salum, the first important Axis held position in Libya is Bardia.

If the British gains signal another drive westward into Libya, it will be the third wave of battle back and forward across Italy's prized North African possession.

First the British swept Italian Marshal Rodolfo Graziani's armies back, in rapid succession taking Fort Capuzzo and Salum last Dec. 16 and rolling back the disorganized Italian armies to beyond El Agheila, Feb. 9.

The combined German-Italian forces swept the British back in a lightning thrust, taking El Agheila March 25, reaching Bardia April 12 and Salum and Fort Capuzzo the next day.

At Tobruk, a British garrison has been beleaguered since just after the Axis recapture of Bardia.

Attack Italian Stronghold

ROME, May 16.—(P)—British forces are attacking the Italian stronghold of Amba Alaji in northern Ethiopia from all sides, heavily supported by planes and artillery, the Fascist high command reported today.

Italian troops are inflicting heavy losses on the attackers, the daily war bulletin declared.

(The British have said that approximately 38,000 troops are trapped in the Amba Alaji sector, without hope of escape.)

BERLIN, May 16.—(P)—British ships attempted to approach the German occupied channel coast today but were fired on by German naval authority and forced to "turn off," authorized sources said tonight.

Reminds That Warships Used In Protection

President In A Discussion Over Red Sea Issue

WASHINGTON, May 16.—President Roosevelt injected today into a discussion of Germany's declaration that the Red Sea will be a danger zone for foreign ships a pointed reminder that twice before in history the United States had used her warships to protect her commerce and obtain freedom of the seas.

He mentioned the action of the new American republic against the Barbary pirates in the Mediterranean a century ago and naval action as well against privateers in the Caribbean.

When reporters inquired at a press conference whether he thought there were "any modern counterparts of the Barbary pirates," he told them merely to use their heads.

Freedom of Seas Policy

Freedom of the seas, he said, was an historic American policy. He did not indicate just what the United States might be prepared to do about the Red Sea.

The President, in citing cases in history, said he merely was providing a lead for newsmen to follow up.

The Red Sea once was closed to American shipping by designation of waters at its mouth as a combat area. Mr. Roosevelt recently removed the ban and American merchantmen are free, so far as their own government is concerned, to go up to the mouth of the Suez Canal.

Germany subsequently declared the waters forming the approach to the canal to be in the war zone.

Ask Opinion On Recount Help

JEFFERSON CITY, May 16.—(P)—Attorney General Roy McKittick was drawn back into Missouri's fight over the governorship today.

The legal department which worked day and night turning out opinions when Lawrence McDaniel first disputed Gov. Forrest C. Donnell's right to office, will have to say whether the law allows the use of volunteer tabulations to hurry the three-weeks-old ballot recount.

The legislature's contest committee suggested the use of volunteers—supplied by the two political parties—to aid St. Louis county and others where the recount has lagged because of the shortage of help.

But some Republicans questioned the validity of the plan. They said only deputy county clerks or election board employees had the right to look at last November's ballots, and deputies can't serve without pay. So Sen. Phil M. Donnelly, chairman of the contest committee, decided to ask McKittick's opinion before furthering the plan.

Donnelly said yesterday only the intervention of the legislature could stop the recount, and turned thumbs down on a request by a Kansas City Democrat to stop the retabulation there.

Shannon Douglas, McDaniel's legal adviser in Kansas City, wanted permission to abandon the recount and certify the November returns as the official result. In a recount of 60 Kansas City boxes Republicans claimed a 31-vote gain for Donnell.

"The general assembly has ordered a recount in every county in Missouri," Donnelly wrote. "And unless the general assembly makes some different action in the matter the recount will have to proceed in all counties in the state."

"Until some action has been taken by the general assembly it is my opinion the recount will have to proceed."

Particular Interest By United States In Martinique

(By Loyd Lehrbas)

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The threat of a Franco-German "collaboration" alliance which President Roosevelt believes can jeopardize western hemisphere "peace and security" found the United States prepared today for any action needed to safeguard American interests.

Mr. Roosevelt, it was said in informed quarters, possesses sufficient authority without going to congress to take whatever steps are necessary to counter any joint Nazi-Vichy action endangering the interests of the United States and the other 20 American republics.

The gravest threat to the American nations, it was said, is the possibility that, in "collaborating" France may be forced to turn over to Germany her fleet and the strategic naval bases at Dakar, Oran and Bizerte.

Consider Sites For TNT Plant Location

KANSAS CITY, May 16.—(P)—The Star in a special dispatch from Washington says three sites in western Missouri are under consideration by the war department as a TNT plant location.

They are near Malta Bend, Excelsior Springs and Missouri City. All are handicapped somewhat by a lack of housing facilities for a major industry, the story said. A final decision probably will not be made for a week.

Giant Liner Of French Placed Under Guard

Normandie And Other Vessels Are Boarded Today

NEW YORK, May 16.—(P)—A dozen or more French-flag vessels, including the giant liner Normandie, one of the most lavishly-fitted ships afloat, were under the United States guard today in the federal government's latest move against foreign shipping.

The boarding action by coast guardsmen — placing the French vessels under protective custody — apparently was similar to that taken against Danish merchant ships in American ports but less drastic than the seizure last month or war stranded German and Italian ships.

The Normandie, her once gay red, white and black superstructure coated by rust and the grime of the city, has lain in dock here since she dashed into port five days after outbreak of the war, safe from a blackout crossing.

Four other French ships were boarded in New York harbor last night by the coast guard. Ten men were placed on the Normandie to guard her, three each on the Ile de Noirmoutier and Mont Everest, which lay beside her, and the Fort Royal and Ile de Quessant, which have been flying between New York and Martinique. The latter four are freighters.

The Normandie, with her spectacular Parisian decoration, was the largest and fastest ship afloat when she made her maiden voyage to the United States June 3, 1935.

Five Selectees Are To Report In June

Five Pettis county white men will be sent by the selective service board to Fort Leavenworth on or about June 6 according to orders received here this morning.

Those to whom notice to report was sent today are the two volunteers Edward Bascom McNeill Jr., and James Wilson Muster, and Harold Bohling Rymer, Kenneth Eugene Brown and Charles William Faulkner.

Alternates who will be called in the event any one of the above fail to qualify or for other reasons are exempted are Mancil Merle Brauer and Raymond Eugene Gerard.

Damage At Pattonsburg In A Severe Gale

PATTONSBURG, Mo., May 16.—(P)—Wrecked dwellings in town and surrounding farms, ripped carnival company tents and scattered tree limbs were evidence of Pattonsburg's high wind.

The storm, of brief duration, left the town without lights and outside telephone communication and with many streets blocked last night.

Thrusts Status Of Colonies To The Fore

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(P)—The United States, except for the diplomatic formalities, reached an open break today with the Vichy government of France.

The administration, informed sources said, is satisfied that the Pétain regime has embraced a program of increasing partnership with Germany and henceforth must be considered in the same category as the governments of other Nazi-dominated nations in Europe.

The situation immediately thrust to the fore the future status of French colonial possessions in the western hemisphere, particularly Martinique in the Caribbean and French Guiana on the northeast coast of South America. A high official singles out Martinique as one colony that was receiving special attention.

There was no inkling in government quarters as to just what action might be contemplated, but administration spokesmen have repeatedly made clear that any attempt by a puppet government to use new world colonies in the interests of another power would be considered a change of colonial sovereignty and hence a violation of the Monroe doctrine. The United States took Greenland under its protection as a precaution against this, following German occupation of Denmark.

Appeals To French People

President Roosevelt took the unusual step last night of issuing an appeal to the French people over the head of the Vichy government.

He called on them, in effect, to reject even yet any "So-called 'collaboration' which will in reality imply their alliance with a military power whose central and fundamental policy calls for the utter destruction of freedom."

The people of the United States, he declared, could hardly believe that the Vichy government would enter an alliance "which would apparently deliver up France and its colonial empire, including the French African colonies and their Atlantic coasts with the menace which that involves to the peace and safety of the western hemisphere."

The unexpected pronouncement from the White House followed swiftly on the heels of the radio address of Marshal Henri Pétain to the French people, saying that "collaboration" negotiations had "lighted the pathway to the future" for France and that it was up to the people "to follow me without mental reservations." Mr. Roosevelt's statement, well informed authorities said, could be interpreted as meaning that this government no longer placed reliance in the ability of the aged World War marshal to resist German pressure for progressively more active cooperation with the Nazi program.

This "collaboration," it was believed, probably would entail Vichy's abandonment of neutrality and then a gradual gravitation to the status of a belligerent against Britain, France's erstwhile ally.

Seizure Of Vessels
Before President Roosevelt spoke out, the government manifested its abrupt withdrawal of confidence in Vichy by ordering armed coast guardsmen aboard all French vessels, including the huge luxury liner Normandie.

The reason for this action was not explained, coast guard officers said merely "You can draw your own conclusions," but other sources asserted that it was undoubtedly to protect the ships—numbering a dozen or more—from possible sabotage, such as crippled most of the recently seized Axis vessels.

One aspect of Mr. Roosevelt's statement that aroused particular interest was his implication that Vichy was about to conclude an alliance with Germany. This led to the belief in diplomatic quarters that the chief executive based his remarks on information direct from Admiral William D. Leahy, ambassador at Vichy, because the generalities of Marshal Petain's address were not considered sufficient for such a conclusion.

Leahy, who has the reputation of a shrewd realist, conferred for almost an hour with Petain in Vichy on Tuesday, the day that France's vice premier, Admiral Jean Darlan, returned from Germany with the "collaboration" terms he had worked out in discussions with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

The German press gleefully hailed the progress of "collaboration" negotiations as a French blow to what was called United States intervention.

Aim For Disavowal
The president's statement was quickly broadcast by short wave, an indication that the government was desirous of reaching as large a world audience of French people as possible. Informed quarters said that they thought that Mr. Roosevelt's appeal was aimed primarily, not at unoccupied France, but rather at those parts of the French empire which still remain loyal to the Petain regime.

Viewed in such a light, they pointed out, it might be considered an indirect attempt to encourage the colonial possessions to disavow any Vichy "collaboration" program and stand fast against any Axis penetration. In most of the colonies, they noted, sizeable military forces existed and could offer resistance.

Like the president's surprise statement, the posting of guards on refugee French ships came without warning. Besides the $60,000,000 Normandie, four other vessels were boarded by guards in New York—the Fort Royal, Mont Everest, Ile de Noirmoutier, and the Ile de Quessant, the last recently returned from Martinique. The Normandie has been tied up in New York since the last week in August, 1939.

Guards likewise went aboard ships at San Francisco, New Orleans, San Pedro, and St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands.

Feel Aims Misunderstood
VICHY, France, May 16.—(P)—The immediate and unofficial reaction today to President Roosevelt's anti-Axis appeal to the people of France was that it was based on a misunderstanding of Marshal Petain's aims. It was considered unlikely there would be any publicly expressed official reaction to the Roosevelt statement since it was not formally directed to the French government.

To support the theory that President Roosevelt's reaction to the French-German collaboration was based on a misunderstanding, the French stressed that Petain's reference yesterday to "the road of honor" meant that the old marshal could be depended on to do nothing to betray it.

The marshal's past references to French honor usually have been in connection with a refusal to take up arms against former allies. Shouts of "Long Live Petain" were heard today from a crowd which watched the marshal, his vice premier, Admiral Jean Darlan, and Defense Minister General Charles Huntziger, review a crack Alpine battalion—veterans of Narvik and the battle of the Alps.

The Alpinist "Blue Devils" came to relieve the Vichy garrison for maneuvers. Dismisses Queries Barrage
WASHINGTON, May 16.—(P)—President Roosevelt said today that international conditions were too serious for him to interpret or comment further on the implications of his appeal last night to the French people to turn down collaboration with Germany.

He dismissed a barrage of press conference questions seeking to draw him out as too hypothetical. Among them were:

Is there likely to be a change in the status of Martinique, the strategic French island at the eastern end of the Caribbean?

Will Admiral William D. Leahy,

American ambassador at Vichy, be asked to come back to Washington to report?

Would any additional steps be taken in the French situation?

He suggested that the state department be asked whether the United States might take action, under its agreement with other Latin American nations, toward taking over some European colonies in the western hemisphere if they were threatened with a change of sovereignty.

Mr. Roosevelt said he did not know whether France would continue to get two ship loads of American wheat a month now that there were indications of closer cooperation with the Nazis.

"Do your dispatches from Vichy" a reporter inquired, "indicate the degree of collaboration to which France has agreed?"

Mr. Roosevelt suggested that the inquiry be placed with the state department and then, with a grin, advised his questioner the department would not tell him anything.

In similar fashion he referred to Rear Admiral Ernest J. King, commander of the Atlantic fleet, a question on how successful the Atlantic patrol was in its operations. And, again, he said King would not tell. Mr. Roosevelt would not go into the discussion of a conference he had with King earlier in the week.

"Fanatical Supporter"
LONDON, May 16.—Sir Neville Henderson, who was British ambassador to Berlin when the war started, described Rudolf Hess to today, in his first public statement on the affair, as "an absolutely fanatical supporter of the Nazi system who was honest and sincere."

Henderson said he considered it out of the question that Hess had come to Britain on a secret mission because of the impression the flight had created in Germany. "In my opinion," Sir Neville said, "he has become convinced in the last two years that Nazism, as it has developed, is on the wrong track and that it is being used to serve the ends of thoroughgoing scoundrels of Germany, such as Himmler, Ribbentrop, Ley and the general party bosses who act solely for themselves."

His reference was to Heinrich Himmler, head of all German police forces; Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and Robert Ley, head of the Nazi labor front.

Henderson, who knew Hess well while he was in Germany, continued:

"I regard Hess as the adopted son of Hitler, a man to whom Hitler was devoted and was devoted to Hitler."

Study Given To Cash Benefits

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(P)—President Roosevelt asserted today that one of the prime considerations when he weighs legislation to provide loans up to 85 per cent of parity on farm products would be whether cash benefits received by the farmer were being figured in.

Cotton farmers, he said, are getting about 24 cents in the way of cash benefits toward a parity price of 15 to 15½ cents a pound. If that is added to the market price of perhaps 10½ cents, Mr. Roosevelt said, the farmer is getting 13 cents a pound which is better than he has received since about 1924.

In any bill providing for a price-pegging loan of 85 per cent, the chief executive told a press conference, you have got to figure whether that 85 per cent takes into consideration the benefits the government is paying out anyway. If you don't, he said, prices to farmers are apt to go above parity.

(The house and senate, by top heavy majorities, have passed a bill to provide loans on five major crops at 85 per cent of parity, which is defined as prices giving farm products the relative purchasing power, in terms of non-farm commodities, they had in 1909-14. Sponsors have said crop control benefit payments would be in addition to such loans, pushing farm income close to 100 per cent parity.)

Whether his remarks implied a possible veto of the loan legislation, the President did not say.

On agricultural benefits, and parity payments, the President said that there was a fertile field for consideration.

New Factors Add To Danger Asserts Knox

Navy Secretary Urges Deliveries To Great Britain

NEWPORT, R. I., May 16.—Declaring that new factors have arisen in recent hours, Navy Secretary Frank Knox asserted today that "it is utterly impossible to exaggerate the mortal danger of our country in this moment of history."

Knox made the statement to the graduating class of the naval war college, after finishing his prepared address. Apparently pointing to France, he said that "what seems to be the subjugation of a once great nation appears to be accomplished," but that "new factors have entered into this subjugation."

"In Washington," he continued, "our Commander-in-Chief has on his shoulder a frightful burden, probably heavier than ever has been carried before. Regardless of our feelings or political affiliations we owe that man every measure of support possible."

"Ours is not to count the cost. Ours is to remember that freedom was given us as a precious heritage."

Earlier, at a press conference, Knox declared again he felt this country should "insure delivery of materials for Britain." As to method, he told newspapermen to use their heads, and added that where as in the last war the submarine was the one menace, there now were "the submarine, the surface raider and the airplane."

In answer to another question, Knox said he thought Rudolf Hess was sane, but added he was under the impression Hess was "two jumps ahead of a gunman."

Asks Strong Navy
In his prepared address before the war college he asked for a strong navy in peace as well as in war, and said that once disarmed Germany had been able to challenge the world "only six short years" after Hitler came into power.

"We can rest assured," Knox added, "that when Germany and its will of force is ultimately defeated in Europe another Hitler 20 or 30 years hence will be able to do the same in an even shorter period of time if the world again relinquishes its policing power."

The secretary said the year 1939 proved that "1917 was not a war to end all wars, and we should be foolish to take it for granted that the present holocaust will be any different."

Knox predicted that "the same hue and cry of disarmament will be raised by so called peace groups following this war that caused our government to scrap our 1916 building program in 1922."

Containing there was "one responsibility that all of us here share equally," he said: "That is to devote our lives in seeing that in the future the navy never be allowed to go into a decline as it has following every war since the American revolution."

against this present trend of our government and to prepare for any eventualities resulting therefrom.

"Third. We do not wish to go on record merely opposing the conveying of war merchandise; we are further opposed to the present policy of making our country an arsenal of democracy."

"Fourth. We urge upon our people the challenge that potentially we are the spiritual 'arsenal' of democracy in the world; and we are convinced that in order to fulfill our mission as a nation, it is our foremost duty to devote our energies and resources to making actual the freedom inherent in our democracy."

"Aware of the trend of our government toward involvement in the present war, we ministers of the Church of Jesus Christ state: 'First. That it is our first duty as ministers of Jesus Christ to preach and to witness to the word of God regardless of whether or not this divine word conforms to the wishes of our government, or to the opinions of those to whom we minister, or to any pressure group seeking to influence public opinion.'

"Second. We believe that the Church of Jesus Christ must not allow itself to become an instrument in the hands of any group or individual. The first allegiance of the Church is to God."

(a) Our pulpits must not become recruiting stations.

"(b) Our pulpits must not solicit funds for the government of the United States."

"(c) Our pulpits must not give any moral encouragement to a military program or policy."

"(d) And it is our positive conviction, that the Church of Jesus Christ must always be the 'Good Samaritan,' the 'Good Shepherd,' and the 'Big Brother,' and in all possible ways attempt to alleviate through its gifts and ministrations, the needs and sufferings of all humanity."

The Alliance also appointed a moral reform committee composed of Rev. Starkey, Rev. Miller and Rev. R. A. Park, and discussed plans for the Hall of Religion at the Missouri State Fair.

The next meeting will be at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of June second.

French Mandated Syria Is Reported Occupied By Nazis

defies the wishes of the immense majority of the people.

"Faced with this fresh infamy on the part of Admiral Darlan and his accomplices, the free French wish to state before the whole world that the Vichy government does not represent France and that the French people must not in any way be involved in that government's dishonor."

The London radio quoted the Daily Express today to the effect that "the painful possibility of direct conflict between Britain and Vichy must be faced." The broadcast, heard by CBS, said further that the British press this morning agreed that "a new and critical phase has been reached in British relations with the men of Vichy."

Informed sources in Cairo said yesterday that the Germans probably got their equipment into Syria by air and boat from Italy's Dodecanese islands, some 450 miles away in the Mediterranean.

Deem It French Affair
BERLIN, May 16.—(P)—France merely would be applying the American lend-lease principle if she permitted German passage through Syria in order to get at the British in Iraq, informed commentators asserted today.

Authorized sources would neither confirm nor deny, however, that German planes would actually pass through Syria. Nor would they make any comment which in any way would be regarded as official.

They were willing to discuss the matter unofficially from the viewpoint of the German man in the street.

It's strictly the French government's affair, these sources said emphatically, in answer to all questions regarding Syria.

As seen through the eyes of the man in the street, the question can be reduced to a simple formula that, rightly or wrongly, France is accused of permitting passage through French territory of war material destined for another country.

Now, it is argued by the man in the street, who took the initiative in getting away from the old conception of neutrality?

Clearly, they said, it was President Roosevelt in permitting, for instance, that British ships be repaired in American harbors, even if it takes weeks.

At best, it is contended, German planes would pause for only a few hours in non-belligerent country.

England and the United States, it is pointed out further, never got excited when war materials moved through neutral countries, provided these materials were intended for Britain or her allies.

Then, it is asked, why object to France's giving similar permission for passage of war materials intended to help the axis?

The man on the street, it was explained, energetically rejects any "holier than thou attitude" of British Foreign Secretary who refers to the moral aspects of France's action in Syria.

Smash At German Planes
LONDON, May 16.—(P)—British airpower is smashing at the Germans in French-ruled Syria where Nazi planes and panzer forces are reported making a swift infiltration further along the Nazis' route to the Suez and nearer Britain's middle east oil fields.

An official British announcement in Cairo today disclosed that the first British blows had been delivered on this potentially crucial battlefield yesterday. German warplanes were attacked by the RAF at Damascus, Rayak and Palmyra, all in French mandated Syria.

This followed upon a report by Reuters, British news agency, that German tanks and other light mechanized forces were occupying Syria and moving across her sandy wastes toward Iraq.

Fleets of German long-range bombers and troop carriers also were reported landing on Syrian airfields. Reuters said its information came from an independent French news agency.

Foreign reports that German tanks were crossing Syria bound for Iraq were not immediately confirmed. Similar reports in Istanbul, Turkey, however, said one of two German air squadrons had landed in Syria and that light tanks also had arrived.

Britain's hold on the sea lanes of the eastern Mediterranean make it improbable, some sources thought, that any Nazi forces had been disembarked from ships on the Syrian coast.

Military circles, however, regarded it as likely that the Germans might be flying light tanks and light guns by planes as they did in Libya.

Vague In Comment
BERLIN, May 16.—(P)—The "positions from which the next blow will be struck have been occupied," the well informed Dietsch said on Germany's next war move.

This significant sentence in the well posted news commentary was part of an inspired German utterance on French-German relations, in the course of which Dietsch said that French Marshal Petain had taken a "positive attitude" in recent discussions.

Germans were vague in public comment, but reflected confidence that satisfactory arrangements with France either had been or were about to be concluded.

(British reports said that German warplanes and panzer units already have been occupying the French mandated Syria and moving through it toward Iraq and that British planes have bombed German aircraft on Syrian air bases.)

Attack On Warplanes
CAIRO, Egypt, May 16.—(P)—The RAF attacked German warplanes yesterday at Damascus and other points in French mandated Syria, it was announced officially today.

The points of attack, besides Damascus, were Rayak and Palmyra, it was said.

Protest By Iraq Government
BEIRUT, Lebanon, May 16.—(P)—The Iraq government has protested to Emir Abdullah of Trans-Jordan over hostile activities by Trans-Jordan elements on the Iraq frontier, it was learned here today.

A memorandum from the Baghdad government was said to have warned that "swift and severe measures" would be taken if the incidents are not halted.

The British have forces in Trans-Jordan under General Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, former British commander in Greece and Egypt, who was appointed to the command of Palestine and Trans-Jordan last week.

Iraq newspapers ran banner headlines reporting that Soviet Russia was "disposed to give all facilities" and that Russian volunteers were joining the Mesopotamian air forces to aid Iraqis against Britain.

Areas Declared Dangerous
LONDON, May 16.—(P)—The admiralty gave notice tonight that all areas of the eastern Mediterranean except Turkish territorial waters have been declared dangerous to shipping, which was interpreted to mean they had been mined against passage of German sea borne troops and supplies to Syria.

Hurl Oranges At Car Of Actress

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 16.—Forced to beat a retreat under a barrage of oranges thrown at her car by Harvard students, Marjorie Woodworth, Hollywood movie starlet, later returned early today and attended the Harvard Lampoon's annual ball.

The staff of the undergraduate comic magazine attributed the fruit throwing to factions envious of the Lampoon.

Reaching near riot proportions at times with fist fights and the hurling of beer cans back and forth amongst students in the streets, the demonstration caused the Cambridge police to send their juvenile delinquency squad into action.

Three Lampoon building windows, dedicated to members of the staff killed in the world war were broken by missiles. Russell Bowie, of New York, a Lampoon editor, suffered a cut hand from flying glass.

Miss Woodworth, a blonde reputedly bearing a resemblance to the late Jean Harlow, arrived at the Lampoon building at about 11 p. m. Two Lampoon escorts braved the barrage to enter the building but her publicity agent, also riding in the car, refused to permit her to follow. None of the missiles hit the actress.

Rescue Pilot Caught By Parachute

One Plane Cuts
Shrouds Flying
Under Another

SAN DIEGO, Calif., May 16.— (AP)—Two naval aviators who snatched a marine parachutist from death in midair may receive the navy cross. Superior officers described it was the most remarkable rescue in aviation history.

The fliers, Lieut. W. W. Lowrey, 34, of Dallas, Texas, and aviation machinists mate J. R. McCants, 41, of Jordan, Mont., looked lightly on their spectacular feat.

"Any experienced navy pilot could have done it," Lowrey said.

Others differed, particularly Marine Lieut. Walter S. Osipoff, 23, Akron, Ohio. He knew that were it not for Lowrey's skill and daring and for McCants' bravery and strength, his life would have been forfeited when he leaped with his parachute from a marine transport plane over a navy landing field yesterday.

SAN DIEGO, Calif., May 16.—
(AP)—A mid-air rescue, effected by pilots flying so precisely the propeller of one plane cut the shrouds of a fouled parachute trailing from another, saved a marine corps lieutenant who for 30 minutes Thursday dangled headfirst in space.

First the navy rescue plane was maneuvered into position to permit 23-year-old Lieut. Walter S.
Osipoff to be pulled partly into the cockpit of the Hell-Diver bomber.

Then Lieut. W. W. Lowrey, 34, of Dallas, inched his craft upward to within two feet of the larger marine transport while the whirling prop slashed the shrouds and freed Osipoff. Disaster nearly overtook the venture a moment later as the two planes came still nearer together—so close in fact the propeller knocked a piece of metal from the transport.

Still upside down, his feet sticking out of the cockpit, Osipoff was landed at North Island navy station to the cheers of hundreds of officers and men. He was conscious but suffered from loss of blood and a possibly broken arm.
The navy version of the rescue —made at 1,500 feet—said it probably was the most remarkable in aviation records.

Osipoff, of Akron, Ohio, was one of several marine lieutenants practicing parachute work. His gear somehow became fouled in the static line cable near the after-part of the transport, and he was yanked out while the craft was flying at 800 feet.

today and scattered leaders managed

Transfers for the full proceedings were around 300,000 shares, one of the smallest turnovers since early March.
Lack of much follow-through on the buying which developed at the opening was blamed on persistent war doubts accentuated by the apparent "collaboration" move of France and Germany and continued deadlocks in a number of labor controversies, particularly in the soft coal mining and west coast shipping industries.

Additional Society

Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Fellows, of Pittsburgh, Pa., are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Ralph Bryant, and Mr. Bryant, of 616 West Seventh street.

A thoroughly enjoyable and educational social meeting of the Sedalia Business and Professional Women's Club was held at the home of Miss Eva H. Evans, 706 West Broadway, Thursday evening.

The feature of the evening was a most interesting and enjoyable talk and demonstration of weaving and spinning by Mrs. Lelah Adler. Mrs. Adler told how weaving originated in ancient times, of its being developed down through the ages with the use of tree barks, roots and various flowers for dyes.
She said in part, that inasmuch as weaving is soothing for the nerves, it is widely used in mental therapy. In demonstrating and displaying various beautiful patterns and textures, including tweeds, tapestries, blankets, luncheon clothes, etc., Mrs. Adler showed an outstanding artistic ability and accomplishment in this very intricate and fascinating work.

At a late hour refreshments of dainty sandwiches, deviled eggs, olives, pickles, cookies, home made candies and coffee were served to about thirty-five guests. The hostesses who assisted Miss Evans, who was chairman of the meeting,
were: Misses Betty Field, Pearl Gott and Mrs. Judson Banks.

Legion Purchases Defense Bonds

KANSAS CITY, May 16.—(AP)—
The Missouri department of the American Legion bought $50,000 in defense savings bonds.

Clem M. White, of St. Joseph, state commander, said the Missouri Legion was the first state organization to invest its surplus funds in the bonds.

In a brief ceremony at the legion home, White presented Dan M. Nee, internal revenue collector, a check for $37,000 for the purchase of five $10,000 bonds.
They mature in 12 years.

"And the bonds will be left intact until maturity," White said.

With short skirts, woman's overhead expense is wasted.

Out of the Night Sky

Far above London, drumming doggedly through the night sky, a German plane, one of many, enters the London area. Below them the city sprawls along the Thames, trying to conceal in its own darkness the greatest concentration of human beings on the globe.

Eyes strain at the flickering dials on the instrument boards of the planes. Pilots and bombers, unknown and never-to-be-known boys, make their calculation in silence, tense with concentration.

A signal, a finger on a lever, the press of a finger on a button, and the bombs plunge downward through the darkness.

Edward the Confessor began the building of Westminster Abbey in 1050 A. D. For 900 years a race of men worshiped God, crowned their kings, honored their great upon that spot along the Thames side. Down, down, out of the night sky shriek the bombs, and a heap of smoking wreckage smolders where kings had stood in awe. Into the stern old-fashioned room of the House of Commons, where Disraeli and Gladstone debated, and where Sir Edward Grey told the people's representatives that war had come in 1914, falls compressed destruction. Into the British Museum, greatest depository of the world's knowledge, it falls again.

The boys in the bombers, conscious of nothing but that they have done their job, are already far away, perhaps already on their way back to their bases, as firemen plow their way among the jumbled benches of the House of Commons.

What was it that thus became heaps of rubble at the touch of a button by obscure German youths high in the night sky? Nothing that was not itself only brick and stone, timber and cement and tinted glass.

The House of Commons is more than that. It is an idea, and bombs cannot destroy it. The rude Saxon warriors had their Witan, or assembly of freemen, when the site of Westminster was a swamp. Simon of Montfort called the first parliament, direct ancestor of the one whose house has been bombed, in 1265, A. D.

For more than six hundred years, this Mother of Parliaments has been developing new and better means by which free men may govern themselves. It is more than a particular political institution. It is an idea—an idea that has spread to take hold on the imagination of men across the wide world.

It is bigger than any building, stronger than stone or glass or steel. The French constitutional assembly, in 1789, barred from its house of meeting, took an oath to defend constitutional government—in a tennis court. The spirit of freedom needs no roof.

Bombs may shatter the House; they cannot move the Commons.

Many skeptical observers say that inflation is inevitable—I deny this most emphatically.—Leon Henderson, price controller, OEM.

Physical strength can never permanently withstand the impact of spiritual force.—President Roosevelt at dedication of Woodrow Wilson's birthplace.

No American worker needs to be reminded what is at stake for labor in the present world crisis. Everything is at stake.—Sidney Hillman, OPM.

Looking Backward

Forty Years Ago

E. R. Blair, cashier of the Sedalia National Bank, who went to Texas several days ago with Dr. J. W. McClure, returned this morning on the Katy Flyer. Dr. McClure is planning to establish a real estate business in Houston.

Ed Manchester, who has been employed by the M-K-T railroad between Sedalia and Parsons, Kas., for the past five years, was promoted to traveling engineer on the road between Hannibal and Denison, Tex., this week.

C. B. Rodes of Sedalia is one of four delegates to the annual district conference of the M. E. church, south, of the Clinton division. The session will be held in Marshall this fall.

Ira T. Bronson, of Sedalia, and Judge C. P. Hess, Macon, are opponents of George Hall, Trenton, for the post of department commander of the state G. A. R. The twentieth annual meeting of the State Grand Army Encampment is now in session at Nevada.

The Washington Merry-go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON—According to best diplomatic advices available here, it seems probable that Rudolf Hess will be able to give the British almost no Nazi military secrets.

Inside explanation of his weird airplane flight to Scotland is that Hess had repeatedly warned Hitler against a policy of trying to conquer the whole world. This caused a break between him and der Fuehrer, and Hess had been under suspicion for some time.

Hitler assigned eight or nine Gestapo men to watch him constantly. These were the "adjudicators" or "aides" described as arrested in Berlin dispatches. Apparently Hitler made the mistake of telling the Gestapo merely that Hess was suffering from a mental breakdown, and did not tell them the real facts. That was why they let him go to an airplane factory where a friend lent him a Messerschmitt 110.

According to uncensored diplomatic dispatches, there has been a growing rift between the leaders who built up the Nazi political organization and the army leaders who built up the German military machines. The politicians staged the revolution and made a big army possible; but now the army is in the saddle and plans to stay there.

9,000,000 German Soldiers

Today in Germany 9,000,000 men are under arms. These men see less and less of Hitler, more and more of their own officers. Their victories are not victories based on propaganda or politics but on efficient organization and a cold-blooded military machine. Propaganda and Nazi "heiling" made the war possible, but the Junker leaders of Germany's age-old military caste have taken the country far beyond.

Into this new evolution of German leadership Hitler has fitted very, very comfortably. He was the first to see Germany's need of a big army, and he is 100 per cent with the army today. If he wasn't it probably would not matter to the new army leaders, but that exigency hasn't arisen as yet.

Goering, born of Junker caste and trained to be an officer, also fits neatly into the shifted picture. But Rudolf Hess did not.

He and some of the other political leaders did not envisage a war to conquer the world, but only domination of the continent and semi-partnership with England regarding other parts of the globe. They have had doubts about internal political sentiment if the German people were pushed too far. Germany has undergone enough hardships since 1914, they argued, and there is no need to conquer the world.

No Military Secrets

How deep this rift extends is not known, but diplomatic dispatches indicate it has been deepening and that Hess, under suspicion in recent months, has not been in the confidence of the Nazi high command. Hence he may not be of much military use to the British.

A super-sensitive person, Hess frequently had shown signs of worry about the fate of Germany and the Nazi party. Last fall diplomatic dispatches reported that he was confined to his home because he kept giving Hitler pessimistic warnings of what was in store for Germany.

For a time members of the diplomatic corps in Berlin did not know what had become of the No. 3 Nazi, thought he had either been purged or killed at the front. Later he returned to official life and appeared close to Hitler until recently, when the Balkan-Near Eastern campaign was launched.

Burr Under F. D. R.

Their GOP colleagues didn't know about it, but several Republican senators gathered with Democrats the other day to devise plans to make Roosevelt come out for convicts to Great Britain.

The Republicans included Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, Chan Gurney of South Dakota, and Ball of Minnesota. They met with Vice President Wallace, Democratic Leader Barkley, Josh Lee of Oklahoma, Pepper of Florida, Truman of Missouri, Murray of Montana (who vigorously disagree with his isolationist Montana colleague Burt Wheeler), and several other Democrats.

Ex-Senator Ernest Gibson of Vermont, now head of the Committee for Defending America by Aiding the Allies, was also present.

Several senators, including the Republicans, felt Roosevelt was failing to bring the seriousness of the international picture to the country, was letting public opinion lead him rather than leading it himself. They decided to get word to the White House to exert more leadership.

Anti-Willkie Campaign

General Robert Wood, head of Sears, Roebuck and chairman of the America First Committee, is training his personal guns on Wendell Willkie, apparently infuriated by the increasing militancy of Willkie's advocacy of all-out aid to Britain.

Wood is telling isolationist intimates that it is important to concentrate their fire on the 1940 GOP standard bearer. Among those he conferred with on this "Get Willkie" drive was a leading New York publisher.

Other America First leaders make no secret of their feeling that Willkie is their most potent platform foe and of their desire to silence him. They say that Willkie completely negates the effect of Colonel Charles Lindbergh, whom the America Firstites believed would sweep the country.

Merry-Go-Round

Representative Warren G. Magnuson of Washington, one of the ablest young members in Congress, is a pioneer advocate of that U. S. Alaska highway that the State Department will shortly negotiate with Canada. Magnuson was chairman of the U. S. Commission that recently met a similar Canadian body to work out technical details of the vital defense road.

Paul's Conversion Cited As Good Example For World's Present Leaders

Texts: Acts 9:1-16
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.,
Editor of Advance

As I have remarked before, it was a great day for the Christian church when Saul, the persecutor, became Paul, the Christian. Here in our lesson we have the story of Paul's conversion.

Paul with his intense persecuting zeal was journeying to Damascus, anxious to discover any who professed this new Christian way. Suddenly there was a great light and Saul stricken with blindness, heard a voice saying, "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?"
There seems to have been in Saul's inner experience something preparing him for such a shock.
He realized that it was a divine voice speaking and he asked:
"Who art thou, Lord?" With what acute intensity there must have been in the persecuting Saul the reply, "I am Jesus whom thou persecutest!"

The history of religion shows many instances of sudden conversion. Often some tragic experience or danger enables a man to see for the first time the condition of his own soul. It may be like the view one attains when he suddenly ascends the crest of a hill or the top of a mountain and sees for the first time his real environment.

It is doubtful, however, even allowing for the reality of a sudden experience, whether the whole story of conversion is confined to the apparent moment of change.
Oftentimes, either consciously or unconsciously, the man who is suddenly converted has been undergoing some preparation for the change.

One wonders, for instance, whether Saul, when he stood holding the garments of those who stoned Stephen, could have been entirely unmoved. When he saw Stephen speaking with words of forgiveness in his dying moments, could he help being impressed with the moral and spiritual superiority of a man who could thus rise above his enemies?

We cannot know all that went on in the mind and heart of Saul as he journeyed. The one thing sure is that his conversion was complete and the Saul who was intense in persecution became very quickly the Paul who was equally on fire with zeal for the truth and for his Lord whom he had seen, as he says, "as one born out of due season."

Perhaps the most important thing in connection with our lesson in the Golden Text from a later chapter of the Acts: "I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision." That is the secret of real conversion. Many men have heavenly visions but it is only those who are obedient who find the way of the highest faith and life.

Conversion is a word we do not hear much today. Perhaps the world tired of so much profession of conversion without much real change of heart and life. What the world needs is still the power of changed lives.

Would that we could see our strong men and "leaders" all so changed that their aims and abilities would become consecrated like Paul's to serving God and their fellowmen!

Onward And Upward

Today, more than ever, we Americans must refrain from looking back, too often, on the griefs, the errors, and the hatreds of the past—whether individual or collective—and of whatever origin—economic, racial, religious or political.

Inherent in the problems of this American generation is the need to utilize every constructive capacity of all our citizens—of whatever race, class or creed.

As Shakespeare once said, precious human intellect and energy should not be wasted on "what's gone and past help." Rather, it should be directed constructively to the problems of the present and the future.

Our churches—Jewish, Protestant and Catholic alike—teach us that regardless of our past errors, with God's help and with faith in Him, we can and should meet our gravest problems with hope and with courage.

Let us, then, go often to our churches, especially in this time of world crisis, there humbly to ask for the divine help which we, as individuals, and as a nation, so sorely need.

Three To Make Ready

By W. H. Pears

Copyright 1941, NEA Service, Inc.

YESTERDAY: Paula is summoned to the president's office when Bill's photo hits the page one of the story on the League meeting. President Van Horn accepts her explanation, warns her that such activities may cause trouble for Cardman. Chris laughs off his lecture, refuses to promise to stay out of trouble. Paula knows she is losing to Kilo.

DR. LUD EXPLAINS

CHAPTER V

IN the days that followed Paula's interview with Van Horn she saw little of either Chris or Tony. The imminence of final exams had cut social activity to a minimum. Even the Sweetland, where Paula strolled one evening, held only a few students. They, like herself, were having coffee between study sessions. Tony Beale was among them.

"Too long, no see, Paula," he said.

She laughed. "They ought to put a sign over Cardman Arch: 'Concentration Camp.' Everybody's doing it."

"Except Chris," Tony said. "All his night work is strictly slim, blond and perky. Chris is a brilliant guy, but I wonder if he can spend his time fooling with stuff like this and make the grade?"

Tony laid a mimeographed sheet on the table. Clever, incisive, it attacked the "snobbery" of Greek-letter societies. The style was unmistakably Wentrich's.

"This stuff is all over," Tony said. "I found one under my door."

"Tony, what do you make of the League?"

He shrugged. "Naturally I've heard rumors, but . . ."

"But you don't believe them," Paula finished approvingly. Tony wouldn't, she thought. He was not the sort to listen to campus gossip. He would go his own quiet way, minding his own business, letting someone else stir up trouble.

"Tony, we ought to be sure . . ."

"It's not our affair," Tony said.

Paula stood up, determination in her hazel eyes. "The other day I made a promise, Tony. Well, I intend to keep it. We're going to Dr. Lud for help."

MARTIN LUD lived in a bungalow at the edge of the campus. A spinster sister kept house for him, but he was alone when Paula and Tony arrived.

"This is a welcome interruption," he said, shaking hands with Tony and smiling at Paula. He led them into the book-filled study and indicated comfortable chairs.

Paula went straight to the point. "We've come about Chris."

"Young Wentrich?" Lud plucked at his close-cropped mustache.

"Fiery young rascal, but I like him. Too much energy, too many ideas; I know the type . . ."

Lud seemed to be thinking aloud. "Start them out wrong and they never recover. . . . Is Wentrich in trouble?"

"No," Paula admitted, "but we're afraid he will be."

"Suppose you both relax and tell me about it," Lud smiled. "Smoke your pipe, Tony; I'll join you."

Tony, with a sigh of relief, lit his big briar. A fire was laid in the grate and Lud touched a match to it. Tony shifted to face the fireplace and sat close to Paula. The flames shone and danced on her bronze hair.

"You talk, Paula," Tony sighed, his eyes on her hair. "I just want to sit and . . ."

Lud coughed. "Perhaps I made the setting too romantic?"

"Of course not!" Paula said, blushing, but she was conscious of Tony's nearness. "Dr. Lud, Chris is getting in pretty deep with the League."

"I'm not surprised," Lud said with a frown. "Wentrich's the kind who has to be fighting for or against something. He needs a Cause. Makes little difference what it is, just so it's an outlet for his emotions."

"You— you think it's all right then for Chris to—"

"I do not!" Lud said bluntly. "An organization of non-fraternity members is not in itself objectionable, but when it tries to suppress those it dislikes. . . . Well, it has forced Dr. Van Horn into a dictatorial role. He had no choice but to act as he did."

"Why?"

PAULA gasped at the bluntness of Tony's query.

Lud hesitated. "That, Tony, is a question you shouldn't have asked."

"I'm sorry, Dr. Lud."

"Apology accepted," Lud smiled. "But now that you've asked it, I'm going to answer. I've been advising you two ever since you came to Cardman. I believe you should know the sort of situation into which your friend Wentrich may be heading."

"We give you our word it will go no farther," Tony said, and Paula agreed.

"I know that," Lud said. "I suppose you've heard of Big Barney Sherwood?"

"Kilo's uncle!"

Lud nodded. "Four years ago, when the president of Cardman retired, Big Barney tried to handpick a successor. He pulled every string, but he failed. The Board wanted an educator, not a politician. Dr. Van Horn was chosen. Big Barney has lots of power; since then he's used every ounce of it to discredit the present administration."

"I get it," Tony murmured.

Lud continued: "Recently two of the Board died and were replaced by Big Barney's party hacks. He now has the power to dare try it without a reason. Van Horn's record is too good. But if dissension should spring up here, something too violent for Van Horn to handle . . ."

Lud shrugged. "You can see for yourselves . . ."

Paula's eyes flashed. "Then you think Kilo is using the League to help her uncle?"

"I didn't say that, Paula," Lud objected. "I'm not making guesses. Kilo really hates the Greek-letter societies. When she came to Cardman she had her heart set on being a Gamma Tau. She tried to use her uncle's power and money for a wedge, and the Gamma Taus wouldn't have her."

"Why, I never heard that story!" Paula exclaimed.

"Which speaks well for your girls," Lud grinned. "We on the faculty think Dr. Van Horn is about the finest educator in the country. He's done more for this school than anyone since Elias Cardman. We feel that education should be kept free of politics. We don't want a bunch of misguided youngsters wrecking things."

"May we tell Chris about this?" Paula asked.

"Wentrich's enthusiasm for new causes is dangerous," Lud said. "Tell him anything that will check him."

PAULA and Tony arose to go. Lud followed them to the porch. Lights from the Gamma Tau house were visible through the trees.

"It's only a few steps home for Paula," Lud said. "Tony, will you permit me to stroll across with her?"

Tony pretended to grumble, but he agreed.

When he had gone Lud turned to Paula: "You're worried about Chris Wentrich, but what about Tony?"

Stamp News

THE way a man parts his hair has added another error to philately's collection. The new Philippine stamp, picturing Dr. Jose P. Rizal, shows the hero with his hair parted on the right, while he actually parted it on the left. The error will not be corrected until the supply of the initial printing is exhausted.

Participation of Australian forces in the African campaign may be the subject of a new stamp, but final approval has not been announced.

Iraq is making news in stamps as well as in the war. A new series may be released soon. British Somaliland is also scheduled to issue a new series.

Release of the promised University of Costa Rica commemorative has been delayed.

Ten new stamps from Portugal picture natives in colorful costumes from the nation's various districts. The set is also available in miniature.

• Mind Your Manners

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Should a guest at a dessert-bridge party refuse to eat the dessert served because she is reducing?

2. Is it all right to say "I believe you took that last trick in your hand" when a bridge opponent ent mistakenly leads from the wrong place?

3. If your bridge table is so slick that it is difficult to pick up the cards from it, should you put a cover on it?

4. When your partner goes set is it all right to say "You could have made it if you had set up your hearts right away?"

5. If you play a hand and go down should you say, "Sorry, partner?"

What would you do if— You are trying to reduce and your hostess has a dish of candy on the bridge table which tempts you—

(a) Say, "Do you mind if I move this candy out of my sight?"

(b) Eat and complain of the weight you are probably putting on?

(c) Either eat it or don't—but don't talk about it?

Answers
1. No. She can cut down on her next meal at home.
2. Yes, if you say it pleasantly.
3. Yes.
4. No. Don't criticize.
5. Yes — or some other brief apology.

Nursery Mysteries

Nearly every nursery rhyme, simple in verse though it may be, tells a story. Here are some questions about the characters in these rhymes, and some of the things they did. You'll find the answer somewhere in the verse of each nursery rhyme.

1. Why was Tom running and what was his father's occupation?
2. Who laughed when the cow jumped over the moon?
3. How much wool did the black sheep have?
4. Was Little Jack Horner sitting in the corner because he was a bad boy?
5. Who lived in a shoe, in a pumpkin shell, in a crooked house?

Sox Infielder Jimmy Dykes Out Of League

Chicago Team Player Retires After Two Decades Of Service

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEW YORK, May 16.—(AP)—Wise-cracking Jimmy Dykes, who kept his youthful ideas long after his hair started falling out, yielded to time Thursday and retired as an active player after 22 years service in the American league.

Dykes hadn't appeared in the lineup of his Chicago White Sox since 1939, but he had preserved his active playing status like some souvenir of those dim days when he was the best all-around infielder in the league and even today, sitting on the steps of the dugout, he declared he was sorry to retire.

Gives Orders Now

He spent every day at training camp sitting in a rocking chair on the clubhouse porch overlooking the practice diamond, barking orders when necessary, but never taking any part in the practice himself. The handwriting was on the wall, but even so Dykes waited right up till the deadline for reducing his squad to 25 players before ruling himself out.

And then, one of baseball's best known gagsters, got footed out of taking a last turn at bat.

Sitting on the steps of his dugout today, he alternately glowed and growled.

"It had to come but I don't like it. I'm not glad."

Wanted Last Game

"I wanted to get out there today and take one more cut, but they called me from Chicago and told me the deadline went into effect last night instead of tonight."

Before the game started a scroll signed by New York baseball writers was presented to Dykes in a ceremony at home plate. When Dykes was asked to take part, he replied, "Keep the umpires out of there, will you. Let's just have fun today."

Because he was signed to a player's contract, Dykes had to be waived on by all the other major league clubs. Asked if anybody had threatened to claim him, he snapped:

"No. But I got a wire from Gallagher (Jim Gallagher, general manager of the Chicago Cubs) asking if I thought this guy Dykes on our waiver list would do them any good. I wired back and told him 'not ripe yet, maybe help you in couple of years.'"

Jenkins To Fight Montgomery

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, May 16.—(AP)—Laughin' Lew Jenkins goes to the past against serious Bob Montgomery in Madison Square Garden tonight to try to prove once again that the best way to get ready for a fight is to play the juke box circuit on a motorcycle and Young Bob, a Philadelphia Negro who works hard for a fight, is just as sure he can show that Lew's way doesn't pay.

The scheduled ten-round tea party is expected to draw a $40,000 gate, kindly contributed by a "house" of some 14,000 customers. If Montgomery wins he'll have a chance to pick up some more change in a shot at Fritzie Zivic's welterweight title.

But beyond that, this tussle, which has no bearing on Jenkins lightweight championship, should decide whether the right way to get ready to bash another guy's head is (A) the Jenkins system—or burn the candle at three—or (R) the Montgomery manner of putting your mind to it and really working.

Up to now, Lew has had the idea that training has something to do with climbing on and off railroad cars. His chores have consisted off and on of giving the bright lights a rattle, of making the rounds of all kinds of sports, usually obliging with a tune on his "git-tar" and an accompanying, if unrelated, vocal refrain. He has been generally just a good-time guy, a lot like Harry Greb and Mickey Walker.

The betting men have made Jenkins a 7 to 5 underdog for the fight. They're remembering how close Montgomery came to taking the skinny Texas thumper apart the last time they met, when Bob had Lew on the floor and then blew a close decision by going into a crouch in the closing rounds.

Summer Recreational Program Attractive

The WPA recreational program for Sedalia this summer is to be more extensive than ever with the Sedalia School Board and the Sedalia Park Board acting as sponsors of the program. Plans are to conduct various tournaments, supervise many games in which it is expected more than 1,000 to 1,500 Sedalia adults and children will participate.

The school board already has made plans for their part of the summer program while the park board is scheduled to meet tonight to discuss their part where the parks are to be used. At this meeting Dolie Farris, Sedalia supervisor of WPA recreation, will present the plans to the board this evening.

Many supervisors are being registered and will be called to over see the various events and take charge of programs at the parks, on the school grounds and other locations to be named.

NOTICE TO ALL BOYS AND GIRLS

Entered In The Bicycle Contest

Because many of the boys and girls entered in the bicycle contest attend the theatres on Saturday, we have made arrangements for the bicycles to be given away to the boy or girl having the most number of votes at the

Fox Theatre at 3 O'clock Saturday

You do not have to be in the audience to be awarded your bicycle should you win, but because many of the boys and girls do attend the Saturday matinee, the awards will be made at the Fox Theatre instead of at The Democrat-Capital offices, as was formerly announced following the close of the Liberty Theatre.

DEPOSIT YOUR VOTES AT THE

Democrat-Capital Office by 7 P. M. Fri.

There are four more bicycles to be given away. One this Saturday, May 17th, one Saturday, May 31st, and two on Saturday, June 7th. Throughout the contest bring your votes to The Democrat-Capital office, where they will be tabulated for the Saturday awards at the Fox Theatre.

IMPORTANT—YOUR VOTES ARE ACCUMULATIVE. IF YOU DO NOT WIN THIS SATURDAY YOUR VOTES ARE TABULATED, AND WILL BE COUNTED TOWARD THE NEXT BICYCLE AWARD. THE WINNER EACH TIME IS ELIMINATED FROM FURTHER COMPETITION.
